

'The Little Lemon that Leapt' is full of WEIRD and WONDERFUL words!
Did you notice the repetition of letters and sounds at the beginning of words in the same sentences? That's called alliteration! For example, "the bumble bee buzzed by with a bundle of balloons."
Circle the sentences below that use alliteration.

Friday is my favorite day to eat french fries.

Have you ever seen a mouse painting a house?

The cow jumped over the moon.

My mom makes me make my bed on Mondays.

My dog doesn't dig in the dirt.

Try writing your own sentence using alliteration here:

The _____ **!
 Adjective Noun Verb

Now that you have the hang of it, turn your sentence into a short story and try to use as much alliteration as you can!
